Hello,

I would like to voice my strong support for the proposed regulations under consideration by the IPCB that would increase standards for vehicular emissions and support a transition to diesel and gas free vehicles in Illinois. I am a resident of Chicago's south side and personally suffer from the pollution in my community caused by vehicular emissions. It is so bad on hot days that I often try to hold my breath when crossing particularly congested streets and when possible, avoid walking down these streets by taking side streets. I was lucky enough to recently visit a country with higher emission standards and a diesel free public bus system and it was wonderful. I would love the same breathable, clean air in Illinois and encourage the board to adopt the proposed statewide regulations and promote a healthy environment for all Illinois residents and visitors.

Thank you,

Nicole Netzel (she/her)
