DEC 11 2003

IEPA-DLPC

On November 14, 2003, I conducted a re-inspection of the above-referenced property located about 4 miles east of Raymond along the Nokomis-Raymond Blacktop (County Road 2100N). My last inspection of the site was conducted March 13, 2003.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency originally received a complaint concerning the site on January 22, 2001. An anonymous complainant alleged there were old campers/trailers, old vehicles, and a dilapidated house on the property. Based on the original investigation conducted February 8, 2001 at the site, a Violation Notice dated March 7, 2001 was sent to the Everett C. Glover Trust (hereafter referred to as the Trust) citing apparent violations of the Illinois Environmental Protection Act. Ms. Becky Cloney, representing the Trust, responded to the Violation Notice in a letter dated April 30, 2001. In the letter she indicated that her father Everett C. Glover had died on March 6, 2001, and that she and her brothers were trying to comply with the VN. In letter dated May 15, 2001, the Illinois EPA acknowledged receipt of Ms. Cloney's letter and stated that the timely implementation of the recommendations in the VN would resolve the matter, but asked for a followup letter with achievable timeframes. In a letter dated January 29, 2002, the Illinois EPA agreed to an extension of July 31, 2002, for the site to be cleaned up. A follow up inspection of the site was conducted October 8, 2002 in which Ms. Cloney was sent an Illinois EPA letter dated October 31, 2002. She didn't reply to the October 31, 2002 letter, however, she did reply to the Agency's March 28, 2003 letter generated from the March 13, 2003 inspection. Ms. Cloney's April 30, 2003 letter requested another extension to clean up the site until November 1, 2003. She also provided a signed Consensual Tire Removal Agreement to allow the Agency to collect and recycle the used tires at the site. The Illinois EPA informed Ms. Cloney that the November 1, 2003 deadline to complete cleanup of the property was acceptable in a letter dated June 6, 2003. Branna LLC (a used tire contractor hired by the Illinois EPA) collected over 300 used car, truck, and tractor tires from the site some time between July 1, 2003 and September 15, 2003.

November 14, 2003 Inspection

I arrived onsite at 11:15 am. The temperature was about 40°F, it was cloudy, and the soil was dry.

As I began the investigation, I observed a pickup truck with an older male in the eastern region of the site. Mr. Harry Ruemmler (telephone 217/229-3146) was met and interviewed. According to Mr. Ruemmler, the Glover family gave him permission to enter the property and pick up scrap metal. He indicated "Chip" House of Raymond has been coordinating part of the site's clean up. He was initially reluctant to give his name or give other information, but he quickly became more open to my questions. Mr.

Ruemmler said this was his first day at the property to collect scrap metal. His activities are limited given his age (he's retired), the type of scrap that was available, and the size of his truck (a pickup truck). The tin and iron metal objects have to be light enough for him to lift into the back of the pickup truck. His plan is to remove parts off of farm implements and other large items at the site for scrap. He didn't propose using a cutting torch because of the expense of a cylinder of acetylene, and the relatively low return on the metal scrap when sold to a metal recycler. He did say that one of the older trucks and tractors setting on the east side of the property probably had some value to a person collecting vintage items. In fact, as we were talking someone came by in a pickup truck and inquired whether one of the farm implements was for sale. The Glover family apparently has been trying to sell some of the farm implements and other things at the site rather than having a scrap metal company come and remove all the metal junk.

It is believed that there were less junk vehicles and farm implements on the property than on the previous inspection. But while there was less apparent waste at the property, it had not all been cleaned up by November 1, 2003 as requested by Ms. Cloney and agreed to by the Illinois EPA.

Ms. Cloney hired Sheppard Brothers Auto Sales in or around April 2002 to remove scrap metal at the site. On April 8, 2002, Mr. Bill Gonet of the Montgomery County Coordinated Services Office investigated an open burning complaint at the Glover Trust property. Mr. Gonet observed two areas of burning waste and met Mr. Bob Sheppard at the site. Mr. Sheppard denied any knowledge or involvement in the waste burned. Ms. Cloney's agreement with the Sheppard Brothers Auto Sales allowed them to remove scrap metal from the site. The cleanup done by Sheppards was apparently limited to removing junk vehicles.

An un-occupied, dilapidated house with transite siding sets near the center of the property (see photograph 4). On the eastern boundary of the property is a Quonset hut-type building (see photograph 1). West and south of the building are a few remaining vehicles, farm implements, and other items (see photographs 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11). The west side of the property appears the same as the March 14, 2003 inspection, except that a large pile of used tires previously setting in the area has been removed by Branna LLC.

My reinvestigation started at the east end of the site and proceeded to the west. One of the first areas inspected was the Quonset hut-type building. The same items inside the building were again found. These include: car engine belts, a few tires, furniture, house insulation, riding mowers, brush mowers, an old car, empty 5-gallon metal cans of herbicide and an assortment of other materials. The building is still in fairly good shape.

An antique truck was setting just west of the Quonset hut-type building (see photograph 2). Mr. Ruemmler thought this would still have some value for a collector. Waste along the northwest side of the building included a metal fuel tank, about 5 used tires and scrap metal (see photos 2, 5 and 6). Photos 7 and 8 show an old tractor (said to have value by Mr. Ruemmler), a metal fuel tank setting up on metal legs, an old combine, and other items further south along the west side of the building.

There are still a considerable number of farm implements setting around the site (see photos 2, 3, 7, 8, 9, 10, 12 and 13). These included a couple of combines, a tractor, old discs, old balers, old rakes, old planters, etc. A rough estimate of the number of farm implement type items onsite is around 15.

Near the southern property line were two boats setting on the ground, and another was found southwest of the house. Photo 14 shows a pile of scrap metal and about 20 used tires located in the southcentral region of the site. Southwest of the house and garage were two metal tanks and about 25 used tires (see photo 16). Photo 15 shows about 5 used tires setting south of the onsite shed.

Three separate piles with used tires were found along the south side of the property in the western region. Photo 17 shows scrap metal along with 5 used tires. In photo 18 a vehicle rear-end and a few used tires were observed. In the southwest corner of the site was another pile of about 25 used tires (see photo 19).

Near the southwest corner of the property, in among the trees, were bundles of metal farm fencing, metal scrap (metal ducts), and broken concrete (see photo 20).

The trailers and campers are gone from the northwest corner of the site. In among the high weeds in this area were an estimated 20 used tires.

Photos 21 and 22 show a cleared area in the western region of the site. On walking towards the house to the east I encountered about 30 used tires setting on the ground at the base of a tree.

In all, I estimated about 150 used tires remain on the ground at the property.

I left the site at 12:05 p.m.
