General Comments:

GIS Data: Latitude-N 40.075572 °, Longitude-W 088.427233° (Garmin) EPE +/- 20'

Ownership: Confirmed by deed from Champaign County Recorder's Office and the Champaign County Platbook both show ownership as Adolph M. Lo.

Administrative Citation Warning Notice sent October 19, 2006 gave the property owner until December 15, 2006 to bring the site into compliance. No additional time was requested by the property owner to bring the property into compliance with the Illinois Environmental Protection Act and Regulations. A site re-inspected on December 15, 2006 resulted in continuation of the same violations.

I was contacted at home late afternoon on January 29, 2006 and informed that the demolished buildings at this site were on fire and the waste that had been near the entrance to the property was no longer there.

The purpose of this inspection was to determine regulatory status and evaluate compliance with the Environmental Protection Act (Act) and Title 35 Illinois Administrative Code, Subtitle G: Land Pollution (Regulations).

January 30, 2007 Observations:

I arrived on site at approximately 10:20 a.m. to finish the investigation of a complaint received on January 29, 2007. The weather was clear and sunny, 12 degrees and very windy from the west. Estimated wind speed was 15-20 miles per hour.

The pile of demolition debris that had been observed the previous two inspections was now scattered between the partially demolished room and the debris pile (photos 1,2,3). Mixed with this debris was pink batten type insulation. This scattered insulation had not previously been observed on this site (photos 1,2,3). The household waste that had been previously observed near the partially demolished room was no longer observed.

I next inspected the debris pile that was located southwest of the house. Initial observation was smoke from smoldering debris in the pile (photo 4). Upon closer inspection, I observed partially burned dimensional lumber, insulation, ash, and items that would not burn like metal mesh, paint can, rock, concrete blocks, lawn furniture, tractor parts and concrete (photos

5,6,7,8). The southern part of the debris pile did not burn very well and observed in the pile was a tire, white painted lumber, sheet or galvanized metal, a branch and plastic (photo 8).

Observed behind the white polebarn/machine shed was another debris pile consisting of tires, metal sheeting, metal fence materials and an anhydrous ammonia tank (photo 9). It is unknown how long this debris has been piled behind the machine shed. This area had not been previously inspected or observed until this date.

I then went to the area near the entrance that was the location of a household debris pile during the previous two inspections. The household debris pile was no longer observed in that location. Small pieces of plastic, glass, paper and insulation were observed near the entrance of the site (photos 10,12). Also observed was pink insulation scattered into the farm field to the east of the site and on the east side of County Road 200 East (photo 11). The insulation was also observed south of the site in the farm field on the west side of County Road 200E (photo 13).

I left the area at 10:45 a.m.

After returning to the office, I called Renee Lo to inform her that the pink insulation from her property had blown across the road and into the neighboring farm field. Mrs. Lo was unaware that the insulation had blown. I requested that she pick up the insulation before we get additional complaints about the litter.

I also inquired if Mrs. Lo was aware that a fire was on-going at this site? Mrs. Lo claimed that it was arson and the Sheriff's Department was looking for the people.
