Trust and music opened doors for missionaries

Women on Mission of Brookport's First Baptist Church met July 15 for their monthly meeting.

Kaye Pryor was in charge of the program, titled: "Not Deterred, Serving Wherever-and Whenever" about Arnold and Teresa Wong, church planters that served in East Asia and currently in Ontar-io. The couple found that in serving the migrant Chinese in Canada, establishing trust opened the doors to listening to the gospel. Their key to communicat-ing the gospel was music, which reached deep in the hearts of the atheists who were brought up in an educa-tion and philosophical belief that financial gains equals success and life ends with the last breath.

The women are sending a donation to Amy Land for a mission trip and travel to Haiti. They are also collect-ing school supplies for the Christian Activity Center and local schools. Shoeboxes are also being filled with small 43 pct; cuts outlook AP) - A global mining industry slump cut into second-quarter earnings at Caterpillar Inc. as companies spent less on equipment and dealers

cal inventories more than Cnterpillar expected. The world's largest maker of construction and mining coningent posted a 43 percent slide in comings and cut its profit and revenue out-look for the year.

Caternillar reported carriangs of $960 million, or $1.45 per share, com-pared with $1.7 billion, or $2.54 per share a year ago, Revenue slid 15.8 percent to $14.63 billion.

This was well short of Wall Street's especiations. Analysts surveyed by EactSet had expected a profit of $1.69 per share on revenue of $15,09 billion.

The company said dealers cut inventories by $1 billion as the global mining industry slowed. Growth especially slowed in China.

Shares of Caterpillar Inc. fell $2.06, or 2,4 percent, to $83.46 in afternoon trading. Caterpillar also said it had currency translation and hedging losses during the quarter.

CEO Doug

Oberhelman predicted improved profits during the second half of the as the company takes further cost-cutting

Caterpillar still cut its full-year profit outlook from about $7 per share to $6.50. And revenue is now expected to come in between $56 billion and $58 billion, down from previous guidance of $57 billion to $61 billion. Dealers, Oberhelman said used inventory from Caterpillar's product dis-tribution during the quarter rather than stocking their own businesses. Company inventory also dropped by $1.2 billion.

Dealers are positioned to cut inventory even fur ther, and the company expects it to fall by $1.5 billion to $2 billion in second half, Oberhelman said,

"That means we are underselling end-user demand this year, and it sets us up for better sales in 2014," he said.

Caterpillar, which has seen its share price decline 7 percent this year, reperchased $1 bil-lion worth of stock in the second quarter, and based on strong cash flow, it expects to buy another $1 billion worth in the third quarter.

On a conference call, Mike DeWali, the company's controller and investor relations chief, investor reamons enter, conceded that production and profit margins won't pick up until mining companies begin order-ing more equipment from dealers, who will then restock inventories.

"I think that's certainly having some impact on the dealer order rates to

"Certainly until we get through the inventory reduction, that will probably he a drag at least on orders placed on us," he said.

Oberhelman said the company already has temporarily closed facto-ries and had rolling lay-offs. "We've taken significant action already, and we will be taking additional cost reduction measures in the second half of 2013," he said.

Caterpillar cut its force by more than 10,000 people compared with the second quarter of last year. The compa-ny had 122,402 employ-ees at the end of fune. The temporary work force also dropped by 9,633 during the quarter. Profits fell in each of Caterpillar's big divisions. Operating profit fell 61 percent to $550 million in resource industries, which includes mining. It was down 47 percent to $362 million for construction equipment, and down 3 percent to $955 million in power systems, which makes items including large electrical generators and incomptive engines.

A 9 percent drop in Caterpillar's construc-tion revenue came despite the improve-ments in the U.S. housing market But North America is less than half of Caterpillar's construction revenue.

the top Republican on the Senate education panel. "He ends the annual game of Congress playing politics with student ban interest rates as the express of students planning their futures."

Rates on new subsidized Stafford loans doubled to 6.8 percent July 1 because Congress could not agree on a way to keep them at 3-4 percent. Without congressional action, rates would stay at 185 percent—a reality most lawmakers called unacceptable, although deep differences emerged even among alless atto how to remedy it.

The componies that came together during the last few weeks would be a good deal for all students through the 2015 academic year. After that, interest rates are deal for all students through the 2015 ac-ademic year. After that, interest rates are expected to climb above where they were when students left campus in the spring, if congressional estimates prove correct. "That's the same thing credit card com-panies said when they sold zero-interest rate credit cards. ... The bill comes due," said Sen. Elirabeth Warren, D-Mass. "All students will end up paying far higher inter-est rates on their loans than they do now."

LONDON - The little prince was in need of a name, and now, by George, he's got one Make that three: George Alexander

Louis.
The announcement Wednesday that Dois:

The announcement Wednesday that Prace William and his wife, Kate, had selected a monitor steeped in British history came as royal officials said the new parents were seeking quiet family time away from the flashbulbs and frenzy that accompanied the blitch of their first child.

While the news put to rest intense speculation over what name the couple would choose, the extreme interest around it illustrated how the 2day-old future heir is already on his way to a lifetime of fanfare and public place.

Kensington Palace said William and Kate Weter "dielighted tha nanounce" their son's name, adding that the baby will be known as "His Royal Highmess Prince George of Cambridge."

The name George — borne by rix kings betts the boy now third in line to the British throne and was a favorite among British bookmalters, evoking the steadfastness of the queen's father. George V, who rallind the nation during World War II.

Alexander is a name shared by three medieval Scotish kings, and Louis could be a tribute to Lard Louis Mountbatten, uncle to the queen's husband, Prince Phalip, and the last British vicercy of India before it gained independence in 1947 William's Lather, Prince Charles, was close to Mountbatten, who was assassinated by the Irish Republican Army in 1979.

The announcement of the name, just Frish Republican Army in 1970. The announcement of the name, just two days after the baby's birth, was quick by royal standards. Queen Elizabeth II and Philip took a month before setting on the name Charles for the Prince of Wales. Charles and Princess Diana took a week before settling on William's four names. While a king usualty rules under his given name, precedent shows that the prince is not hidebound by George. The first name of George VI was actually Albert, but he pecked his fourth name to use as sovereign in honor of his father, George V.
