RULEMAKING UPDATE

DISMISSED EVALUATION OF UNDERGROUND INJECTION CONTROL, R89-15

On May 21, 1992, the Board dismissed R89-15, which considered amendments to the underground injection control regulations. Section 6.2 of the Environmental Protection Act mandated that the Department of Energy and Natural Resources study the underground injection of hazardous wastes in Illinois. The Department submitted the results of its study to the Board in October, 1989. That study recommended 19 amendments to the existing regulations. The Board conducted legislatively-mandated hearings on the study in May and June, 1990. The Board concluded, based on the record, that intervening identical in substance amendments to the underground injection control regulations mooted many of the Department's recommendations.

The Board felt that certain other of those recommendations did not warrant regulatory amendments. The Board invited a regulatory proposal to address any remaining concerns and closed the docket. Questions should be directed to Karen Rosenwinkel at 312-814-3665.

BOARD MODIFIES RCRA UPDATE, R91-13

On May 21, 1992, the Board, modified its final opinion and order of April 9, 1992 in R91-13. This rulemaking included identical in substance updates to the state's RCRA rules to correspond with USEPA actions that appeared in the Federal Register during the second half of 1991. R91-13 included the new boiler and industrial furnace ("BIF") rules, and USEPA corrections to the "third third" land disposal restrictions. In the April 9, 1992, Opinion and Order, the Board indicated that it would allow time for post-adoption comments. The Board received comments from USEPA requesting correction of a typographical error and from three entities interested in having the Board adopt two site-specific, USEPA-granted "treatability variances". The Board corrected the typographical error in the supplemental opinion and order. It also modified Section 728.144 to allow adoption of site-specific USEPA "treatability variances" by identical in substance rulemaking. The Board also added Section 728. Table H to list the two "treatability variances" adopted as part of this docket. Questions should be directed to Morton Dorothy at 217-333-5575.

NEW DOCKET OPENED FOR PROCEDURAL AMENDMENTS TO RECYCLED PAPER REQUIREMENT FOR FILINGS, R92-7

On May 21, 1992, the Board accepted a petition filed May 19, 1992 by Business and Professional People in the Public Interest.

The petition would amend Section 101.103(d) of the procedural rules to add definition to what constitutes recycled paper. Questions should be directed to Elizabeth Schroer Harvey at 312/814-6921.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

DISMISSED NOISE COMPLAINT FILED BY CONDOMINIUM OWNER AGAINST ASSOCIATION

On May 21, 1992, the Board dismissed a noise enforcement action brought by an individual condominium owner against the condominium association. (Nesbitt v. 100 Bellevue Place Condominium Association, PCB 92-48.) The complaint alleged that the condominium's air handling and air conditioning equipment violated the Environmental Protection Act and Board regulations. In dismissing the complaint, the Board noted that the Act and regulations prohibit the emission of noise "beyond the boundaries" of one's property so as to unreasonably interfere with the enjoyment of life. The Board found that pursuant to the Illinois Condominium Property Act, a single property includes the individually owned units as well as the common elements of the building. The Board held that noise which emanates from a common element to a unit remains within the confines of a single property. Therefore, the air handling and air conditioning noise did not emit beyond the boundaries of one property to another.
